

Spindrift

The Eagle's Nest

I speak no German. The Volkswagen driver spoke no English. Yet, as we sped along the roads of Tyrol towards Hitler's house in Berchtesgaden we conversed in broken Italian. Franz, like me had picked up a few Italian words and phrases during the war in Italy. In those days he was an infantryman trying to shove me and others off the Anzio beachhead into the sea. He smiled a rueful smile when I told him I'd worked a wireless set from a basement below the ruins of Anzio to the R.A.F. at Naples and tried to direct Pitfires and Hurricane fighter-bombers to the more pugnacious of the German troops around our perimeter.

Now 11 years later I, as a tourist, he as a taximan, were paying our first visit to the Fuhrer's mountain eyrie.

I plied Franz with English cigarettes. They were most acceptable. He hadn't smoked any of ours since his P.O.W. days. Austrian cigarettes are much cheaper than ours, but they are invariably strong, distinctive and to be smoked at rare intervals.

We crossed the Austrian frontier, entered Germany, and were amid the snow-capped misty heights of Bavaria. We climbed the well-engineered but corkscrew road up the steep Obersalzberg, and soon I was standing where once stood Hitler's house.

I had a strong feeling of being on top of the world. I could understand how the site must have ministered to Hitler's power craving. Here he could fancy himself the veritable mountain eagle brooding supreme over all he surveyed. No need in those exhilarating late thirties to shed any Alexandrian tears because he had no more lands to conquer.

Hitler's house—I will not say alas—is no more. It was badly damaged in an air-raid on April 25, 1945, and in subsequent proceedings by land forces. In 1952 the ruins of the house were blown up.

The famous bunker remains, however. It stretches for almost two miles deep underground and is heavily concreted. At the entrance as you pay your 1s. 8d. admission, you can buy picture postcards depicting "Hitler's Heim"—before and after.

Franz and I descended about 100 steps to a depth of 150 feet, found ourselves in a long, deep corridor, and with the aid of a chart purchased above, picked out the rooms (now bare of furnishings) of Hitler, his personal physician, Dr. Morell, and Eva Braun. We also saw Hitler's private bathroom and noted the heavily armored door with apertures for machine guns of the S.S. guards' room.

Franz, three times wounded (Russia, Italy and France) said nothing. He took in everything eagerly, but I could not guess his thoughts. To have ventured a comment would have somehow seemed an impertinence.

I did point out the words "Long Live Adolph," which someone had scribbled alongside a swastika. Franz smiled, I had an odd feeling he did so out of the politeness due to a client.

When I left Hitler's room, my driver remained behind.

GYPSY TOURING

By C. A. PRICE

The road now winds up to the Kicking Horse Pass over the Continental Divide. At the highest point of this pass, 5400 feet, a small stream flowing from the glaciers of Mount Niblock divides, part flowing west to form the headwaters of the Kicking Horse River and part flowing east to join the Bow.

A few miles further on and we are in the heart of Yoho National Park. Yoho is an Indian word meaning "wonderful" and it is indeed wonderful, for it is here surrounded by 10,000-foot peaks we see the mighty Takakkaw Falls, dropping 1,800 feet from Daly Glacier to the Yoho Valley, beautiful Emerald Lake and the natural bridge over the Kicking Horse River.

We left our Yoho Park camp at 5:00 a.m., as the Kicking Horse Trail was closed during the day and we must get to Golden before the construction crews start work at eight o'clock. From Golden we followed the 180 mile Big Bend Highway to Revelstoke. This road had been badly damaged by the recent storms and was closed to all but light traffic. Most of the bridges were washed out and we crossed the creeks and rivers on everything from Bailey bridges to a pair of logs lashed together. It was fortunate that we got an early start as the 180-mile trip in pouring rain took the entire day.

The camp ground on Mount Revelstoke was under five feet of snow so we camped for the night in one of the picnic shelters, overlooking the town of Revelstoke. We spent the following morning playing in the snow and enjoying the scenery. The road west of Revelstoke was blocked by a huge mud slide into the lake and we thought we had at last met our Waterloo, but the good old highway department came to our rescue. A few timbers lashed across two oversized canoes, a power boat to push us and we sailed merrily down the lake past the slide.

At Sicamous we must detour along the east shore of Mara Lake, and it is here that we find the ultimate in B.C. highway efficiency??? A detour on a detour on a detour no less, but with nothing worse than a few imaginary broken springs we once again get back on pavement and are soon at our camp at Monte Lake.

A short stop at Kamloops for groceries and a look at the town, then on to the Savanna campsite for lunch. A stop at Cache Creek. Here, according to legend, stolen gold was buried, but as we were unable to find any we carried on down the Thompson to the town of Lytton, at the junction of the Thompson and Frazer rivers. The road down the Frazer Canyon has been improved somewhat but still offers plenty of thrills and we stop at every vantage point to admire the views. We make camp at Spuzzum and although it was a beautiful evening

NINE YEARS AGO

Motorcycles roaring up and down the beach were a problem in the year 1947, according to records, and a letter to the Chief of Police and the Beaches and Park Board resulted in a notice appearing in the local paper prohibiting the practice.

Swimming classes for children were being given every Saturday on the beach by Archie McKinnon and other members of the Victoria Swimming Club. Mr. Sturgeon, school principal, supplied a list of 62 children who were interested in these classes. Instructors were being brought out and driven back to town by volunteers.

A film of the 1946 World Series and another called "One Hundred Years of Baseball" was shown in McMorran's Hall, rent-free. A collection was taken to provide sports equipment for the Boys' and Girls' Clubs.

July 1st had seen a Sports Day with 31 events and 48 prizes given away. The Sports Day was due to the efforts of Douglas Fletcher, Del Leith, Hilda Andrew, Albert Eales and Noel Andrew.

The first of the quarterly dances was attended by 64 and suffered a small financial loss.

New members introduced at the July general meeting were: Mrs. Ganner, Mr. and Mrs. P. Sharp and Harold Gorse. Mr and Mrs. H. McDougall had been accepted as new members but were not present.

Committees were being drawn up and much investigation being done at this time into the possibility of building a hall and publishing a monthly paper.

David Radford headed the committee for the Second Annual Klondike Nite committee which included D. Lotzer, C. Howorth, D. Fletcher, J. M. Kidson, N. Andrew, A. Buckle, H. James, H. Savage, G. Ross, Del Leith, Kay Carter, Mrs. J. Walker, Mrs. G. Shaw, Mrs. E. Hayden, Mrs. G. Ross, Mrs. N. Andrew, Mrs. C. Howorth and K. R. Genn. A successful Klondike Nite was held, the exact date appears to be a mystery, and twice the profits of the year previous were realized.

The Way It Looks To Me

By MYRTLE DYER

When people have nothing else to talk about it is always safe, so they say, to talk about the weather. And it always seems as if the weather is something to talk about. There are always records being broken, either in the amount of rainfall or the lack of it, the amount of sunshine or the lack of it, or the number of days in a row of any one of these conditions.

When we first moved out to the Bay and a beautiful day came along I used to work like mad around the house getting things in order, and promise myself to take the next day off to enjoy it. Tomorrow would come and a change in the weather, and a frustrating day would be spent with all the work done (?) or anyway no inclination to do any. It took some time before experience proved that the sun must be appreciated while it is shining. A cloudless half-hour could be followed without warning by wind, rain, hail or snow—or the whole works. Today may be fine, but tomorrow, who knows? Not even Bill Mackie.

Therefore, when April came this year, I was wise. I left my garden, I left my sewing, I left my house-cleaning—I even let the children's piano practice go. Down the beach went I. Then, as April and May went by in a succession of glorious golden days I began to realize that something had happened to the scheme of things and I knew the sunshine would go on and on all summer. Reluctantly, I returned to working like mad. But only in the mornings. In the afternoons I tore down the beach, threw myself on the sun-drenched sand and drowsed an hour or two, then raced back up to the house to get supper, water the garden and supervise the music studies. My days filled solid, I chuckled inwardly. The weather was perfect, it couldn't be beat, and it was comforting to know it would go on forever . . .

That day was about the hottest so far. Next day was close to freezing with a bitter, blustery wind, and then came sudden hail followed by a steady downpour. We'd had it.

There's one thing we must say about the weather, though. We can't get along without it.

IT BEARS REPEATING

For those who missed the following editorial in the Saanich Star (not one of the executive of the Club had seen it) we are reprinting it:

"If the adage about the devil finding work for idle hands be true today, then the community club must be the antithesis of the devil. There are community clubs and halls dotted about the municipality, but few have the record of activity and accomplishment boasted by the Cordova Bay Club.

"In one decade the club has constructed its own hall, fielded its own teams in a variety of sports and gained athletic laurels which speak highly for the organization of the community.

"During the period of construction of the hall there were no idle hands in the area, all were busy at the common chore of carpentry. Since that time the residents of the area have been actively engaged in training and fielding a number of teams in addition to other organized recreation.

"The history of the club is a short one. Its list of accomplishments is gratifyingly long."

LETTERS TO THE EDITORS

The following are extracts from letters received recently:

"We would very much like to continue with Spindrift. Keeps us in touch with our old-time haunts. Many thanks. Best of good luck. L. Reed, Santa Clara."

"We enjoy reading Spindrift very much. Thank you. Mrs. W. R. Battison, Lochside."

"We would like to say 'thank you' for the years we have been receiving Spindrift and have enjoyed it very much. We have always passed it on to our new neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hackwell, since they came here 18 months ago. Mr. and Mrs. W. Goldfinch, Guernsey Road."

"We are very glad to see that Spindrift is back again and wish it the best of luck. Mr. and Mrs. E. F. L. Henslowe, Parker Avenue."

"What a wonderful surprise and pleasure to have Spindrift again. Now I shall look forward to having it every month. It is just chock-full of news. Many thanks. Mrs. Florence Leviolette, Jersey Road."

KLONDIKE KATERING

This month all talk is KLONDIKE NITE.

We are getting quite a reputation for catering to these hungry hordes. Last year we sold more hot dogs, coffee, ice cream and pop than previous years and this year we expect to sell even more.

Have you been contacted to help in any way by the Klondike Committee? Can you spare one hour to give some of the other workers a chance to enjoy the fun of the evening? If so, please contact any member of the Auxiliary, or Fred Dyer, personnel manager, for Klondike Nite.

Here is another recipe for your sweet tooth.

Bessie Swift says it is fool-proof.

Bessie's Fudge

1 cup white sugar, 1 cup brown sugar, ¼ cup corn syrup, ¼ cup melted butter and ½ cup sweet milk.

Combine and boil for 7½ minutes. Take from the stove and add 1 teaspoon vanilla and beat until it is really creamy. Pour into buttered pan and mark in squares while still warm. The secret of this is in the beating.

To make chocolate fudge add 2 teaspoons cocoa after the mixture has boiled 2½ minutes and then continue to boil till the 7½ minutes.

Other variations can be made by adding different flavorings or nuts.

See you all on Klondike Nite, Friday July 6 at 8 o'clock in the Community Hall.

There will be no Auxiliary meeting again until Monday, September 10.

Guide and Brownie News

June's Local Association meeting was held at the home of Mrs. D. Fisher, Cordova Bay Road on the 12th. Our outstanding business at this time was plans for the Penny Fair to be held on October 12 at St.-David's-by-the-Sea. This is quite an undertaking for a small group and all members are plunged into arrangements for stalls, games and refreshments. Any help would be appreciated such as donations for the Green Thumb, Specialty Shop, Handicraft and Cooking Stalls. This month three Brownies and five Guides were enrolled and a number of badges presented.

Plans for Brownie Revels on June 16 were discussed, and more will be heard about these in the next report.

We are sorry to hear that one of our members is leaving the district—regret having to lose you, Mrs. Blow. Mrs. D. Fisher will take over the treasurer's duties.

Afraid a little confusion reigned last month and Mrs. Fisher was mistakenly named in the report as our new Tawny Owl. Mrs. K. R. Taylor has taken over these duties and we welcome her into our ranks.

The next L.A. meeting will be held September 12, 8:15 p.m., St. David's-by-the-Sea.

Winnie Pearson,
 Publicity.

Four's and Five's

The May meeting of the Cordova Bay Co-operative Playgroup was held at the home of Mrs. R. E. Spooner, Campion Road. Mothers wishing to be certain of enrolment should contact Mrs. D. A. Jones, 9-2130, as soon as possible.

we were rather sad as this would be our last night in camp.

We left camp before the birds were up, as we had to drive 200 miles before 11 o'clock in order to catch the Anacortes ferry. The traffic was light and the roads good and we arrived at the dock with 15 minutes to spare, an uneventful crossing to Sidney and we were home again.

We had covered some 2,000 miles over good roads and bad, in storm, flood and glorious sunshine, we had camped in the lush valleys and on the high mountains in the eternal snows. It was all part of a wonderful trip and we are looking forward to next summer when we can take to the road again on another Gypsy Tour.

COOK BOOKS AVAILABLE

Ever get tired of cooking the same old thing? You may find some new and interesting recipes when you buy one of the cook books containing favorites reluctantly given by the ladies of the Cordova Bay United Church.

The meeting of the United Church Junior W.A. at the end of May was opened with the Lord's Prayer. Plans were completed for the Sunday School Picnic to be held on the 23rd June in Mount Douglas Park.

A very interesting article was read by Mrs. J. Armstrong at the conclusion of the meeting. This was from the United Church Observer and told of new immigrants to Canada and how they learn the English language from the church organization free of charge. We cannot help but admire the courage of these people in starting anew, sometimes late in life, learning all over again to express their feelings in words and taking up an entirely new way of life after what some of them have been through.

An enjoyable social hour was spent presided over by Mrs. D. Gregg and Mrs. E. Quirk.

Silver Trophies For Flower Show

Mrs. A. Taylor and Mrs. T. Brown entertained St. David's Women's Guild meeting at Mrs. Taylor's Lochside home recently. Presided over by Mrs. B. Dyer, vice-president, plans were made for the annual Flower Show and Garden Party to be held at St. David's, July 11. Mrs. J. Wyper, flower show convener, will be assisted by a committee consisting of Mrs. Dyer, Mrs. Fred Smith and Mrs. Renfrew. On display were three handsome silver trophies which have been donated as perpetual awards at the show. The committee now has five perpetual awards.

Tea will be served on the lawn during the afternoon, with Mrs. Dyer, Mrs. Westwood, Mrs. Brown and others in charge and refreshments in the evening too.

A stall of produce and home cooking will be managed by Mrs. H. Stevenson and Mrs. Taylor. Mrs. J. J. Hutton will sell needlework.

The hostesses served tea assisted by Mrs. Westwood and Mrs. Dyer. The next meeting of the Guild will be held at the home of Mrs. Dyer, September 11, following the summer recess.

E. M. Lewis.

of the 4th Division badminton team with a trip aboard their yacht from Swartz Bay to Pym Island. A scavenger hunt on the Island was followed by supper around a cosy beach fire, contests and a sing-song.

Mrs. A. Robinson, Gordon Road, entertained the W.M.S. to St. Aidan's Church at her home and Mrs. Tory Lindal poured tea.

SPORT NEWS

The Cordova Bay South Boys' Softball team has enjoyed a very successful season to date with seven wins to three defeats.

The team and coaches would like to take the opportunity at this time to thank the Community Club for sponsoring the team, also to thank umpires C. Cunningham, J. Roberts and E. Butcher, who have so kindly given their time at these games.

We are most grateful to the parents and friends who take time out to come to the games and cheer the boys along. Many thanks to all.

Good going, Bay South, hope to meet you in the play-offs. To date, Cordova Bay North Midgets have won all their games. This is practically the same team

DRIFTWOOD

Doris Olds struggling with the lawnmower on the boulevard . . . Austin Elliott chasing caterpillars, one by one . . . Ed Irvine looking over his beautiful Studebaker which stopped a car coming down Haliburton . . . Les Johns leaning on the shovel . . . Marj. Norsworthy bicycling home behind a huge load of groceries and over a freshly-tarred road, no less . . . Bob and Sylvia Macmurchie chasing a small white pill in a light rain, lugging their golf bags behind them . . . Stuckey Tucker pumping gas with a smile . . . the Cramptons burning up the by-ways in their new "bomb" . . . A start being made on work for the new addition to the school . . . the Elmer Knights' garden sporting palms—mother and daughter—and their home wearing a new coat of stucco and paint . . . a new home going up where the old Head home has been torn down . . . Some of our local bathing beauties appearing with the Aqua Nymphs at the Garden Party at the home of Mrs. H. Husband. Who? Pat Rogers, Linda Tucker, Joy Anderton and Penny Oldham . . . SEEN ALONG THE KLONDIKE TRAIL

Ol' Sourdough Vic Lindal wearing a pith helmet, which proves its a hot trail that leads to Klondike Nite this year. Or maybe he is just hot on the trail of Klondike Kate.

Best whip up those husky malemutes, Ol' Sourdough, we are all waiting to see the size of the gold poke you're bringing to town this year.

that won the B.C. title as Bantams two years ago.

The Bantam boys are also doing well, winning all their games but one which they lost to View Royal, 4—3, and won against the same team later, 10—4. All three teams are playing very good ball and those parents who haven't been out should come and see their sons play. They will be very proud of them.

I wish to thank Mr. Johnston for organizing our drive for raising funds and also thank the merchants who so kindly donated prizes.

Bob Macmurchie is doing a fine job of coaching Junior Badminton players every Wednesday night in the Community Hall. All boys and girls from 10 to 18 years are welcome. The seniors play every Thursday night.

V. Lindal.
